CABERNET SAUVIGNON

Oakville, Napa Valley

2017 OAKVILLE Cabernet Sauvignon

“A gorgeous wine. Pliant and racy in the glass with striking depth, it offers terrific richness and intensity. ... It is the wine’s balance and overall sense of harmony that stand out the most. This flamboyant Cabernet is a real overachiever.”

— Antonio Galloni, vinous

“Open and plush in feel, with a pretty, savory frame surrounding gently mulled plum and blackberry notes. Light tobacco and warm stone details chime on the finish.”

2016 OAKVILLE Cabernet Sauvignon

“Moving up into the valley, the Oakville AVA showed why it is hallowed ground. Home to prominent vineyards such as To Kalon, the AVA covers the breadth of the valley from east to west, resulting in some style differences. But the sweet spot is the center fillet around the Oakville Grade Road and up into the western edge. From here, the Groth Cabernet Sauvignon Oakville 2016 is as good a deal as you can find in Napa Cabernet.”

OAKCROSS PROPRIETARY RED

Oakville, Napa Valley

2018 OAKCROSS Proprietary Red

94 pts

“A new wine in this range, the 2018 Oakcross is a blend of 78% Cabernet Sauvignon, 20% Merlot and 2% Petit Verdot. Merlot adds mid-palate sumptuousness to this gorgeous Oakville red blend. Silky and racy to the core, but with plenty of tannins to support it all, the Oakcross has a ton to offer. Dark plum, espresso, licorice, spice and cedar linger nicely.”

— Antonio Galloni, vinous

RESERVE CABERNET

Oakville, Napa Valley

2017 RESERVE Cabernet Sauvignon

— James Suckling

“Features overt cherry, plum and raspberry fruit flavors, gilded with anise and mesquite hints. Maintains good energy thanks to fresh acidity through the finish, revealing a long echo of savory and iron. Inviting now, but suitable for cellaring.”

Cabernet Sauvignon Oakville Reserve 2016

Groth owns 121 acres smack in the middle of Napa's coveted Oakville AVA. Founded by Dennis and Judy Groth in 1982, the Oakville estate has endured some ups and downs, including a large-scale replant that resulted in the absence of a Cabernet Sauvignon Reserve from its lineup from 2000 to 2004. The vineyard is now in its prime, and the reserve blocks total 27.5 acres, generating a focused and refined Cabernet with an intense, fruit-driven core. Winemaker Cameron Parry ferments in stainless steel and presses before full dryness, lending a sweet fruit quality to the wine. He then ages it in 100 percent new oak for 22 months.

GENERAL PRESS

WINE SPECTATOR: Ageability

"I splurged on a bottle of Groth Cabernet Sauvignon Napa Valley Reserve from 1992, a sneaky good year. ... This wine was perfectly on point for me. ... Singed herb and wood notes provided detail to the mature currant fruit core, with a whiff of smoke curling through the finish."

Groth at the Cross Road

A vertical tasting of Groth's Cabernet Napa Reserve back to the 1980s reveals consistency and growth

James Molesworth

After my visit at Ovid, atop Pritchard Hill, I stuck to the valley floor for my next. The differences couldn't be starker, but it's that dichotomy that makes Napa Cabernet so fascinating. Ovid has 15 acres of vines struggling on scraggy volcanic rock.

At Groth, located on the filet mignon of Napa Valley, the Oakville Cross Road, there are 121 acres of vines seemingly gorging themselves on deep loam and gravel. And yet both make compelling wines.

When Dennis and Judy Groth bought a property in Napa Valley in 1981, it was meant to be a retirement spot. Dennis was working in the Bay Area for Atari during its heyday, and he didn't know anything about farming, but he did like the property, which had some vines planted by Justin Meyer in the early '70s. As Groth kicked around during his spare time he hired Ben Benson to replace the fading vines and expand the vineyard a bit. The plan was to sell off the fruit. A small amount was bottled under the Groth name, debuting in 1982. A second property of 44 acres was purchased that same year.

But when Atari crashed in the mid-80s, the "retirement" plan was accelerated, and Groth moved his family up to Napa. And when the market for buying grapes didn't materialize the way Groth expected, plan B became to make all the wine themselves. By 1985, with Nils Venge as winemaker, Groth was cranking out 30,000 cases of wine. A winery was built in 1990 to keep up with the growing production and in '94 Michael Weis replaced Venge as winemaker. Weis oversaw another large-scale replanting started in 1998 during which time production dropped. By 2001 the vineyard was back on an upward trajectory. ...

It was Venge who isolated the first reserve block for its potential for Cabernet. There is some soil variation on the site, and a cooler corner where Chardonnay, Sauvignon Blanc and Sémillon are grown. There's some Merlot, too. But it's the Reserve blocks (there are now two) that have earned Groth its reputation. The reserve blocks total 27.5 acres — nearly twice the total of Ovid's entire vineyard.
